Dear Mr. Nash,

You had better make a record of the address at which we havebeen for more than four years and were at the time of our earlier correspondence. Normally, mail is not forwarded after two years and Dell simply will not change the record there.

I have continued investigating, have an enormous amount on paper that I am without fund for printing, see no immediate commercial possibilities for anything (it never was good except for sycophancy or junk), and haven't the time to go into all of it in a letter. I do in speeches, but I can no longer mak them except at the customary arrangements. Basically, there is no change in conclusions. There is an enormous amount of new fact, all consistent with what I have written earlier and none disputing any of it.

I have no recordings.

The only work by any responsible critic of which I know is incomplete and until it is published it is a futility to announce it, leading also to unnecessary work none of us still working should be taking from the work we do.

The only new book I have brought out is on the King assassination. It was a publishing disaster because the publisher not only would not promote, but he did all he could to discourage independent promotions. Reviews enclosed.

Sincerely,

Harold Weisberh
